Construction Pace Set '56 Record Here

Building construction set a new record in Salem during the past year.

A total of $2,021,831 was spent in the start of new homes, commercial and industrial projects, residential garages, home repairs and additions and repairs to commercial buildings, according to building permit records kept at the office of Mayor Dean B. Cranmer.

This two million dollar-plus expenditure in new construction topped 1955 by $494,644, according to the valuations set forth on the permits issued by the city. The '55 total was $1,527,187.

$17,000 Stolen In Bank Holdup

Short Gunman Robs Milton, Wis. Bank

MILTON, Wis. (AP)—A patient, diminutive gunman who parked his car outside the Bank of Milton this morning and waited for the first official to arrive took some $17,000 from the bank's vault and escaped.

A general Midwest alarm was broadcast by authorities for the gunman, described by Asst. Cashier John Misener as 5 feet 2 inches tall and about 24 years old.

Misener said the young man had parked a late model blue-green or gray-green Pontiac sedan at the curb in front of the bank. When Misener arrived to open the bank the young man approached him, drew the gun and ordered the official to open the bank.

The money was taken from a money chest in the bank vault. "It was protected by a time lock," Cashier Phil Hudson said, "but the lock had run out at 7 o'clock. The holdup man apparently was that familiar with vault operations."

At the hour—shortly after 7 a. m.—light was poor. Misener said the holdup man was unmasked, and was wearing a light jacket and a brown leather cap.

This quiet little college town 25 miles north of the Illinois line, has a population of only about 1,200.

Post Office Receipts Here Set Record

Salem Post Office receipts set an all-time record during 1956 when a total of $263,435.61 was collected, Postmaster L. D. Beardmore revealed today.

Last year's figure was $381,27 more than the $258,054.34 taken in during 1955. Last year's receipts also topped the 1954 peak of $258,616.19 by $4,819.42.

Receipts were highest for the month of December when $36,982.77 was collected. Beardmore attributed this high monthly figure to Christmas mails. The lowest month in revenue was last August when receipts totaled $18,515.99.

Other monthly postal receipts follow:

January, $19,052.27; February, $20,047.06; March, $21,772.29; April, $18,773.06; May, $20,813.16; June, $19,534.63; July, $18,537.28; September, $18,607.89; October, $19,068.16; and November, $20,875.34.

Battle Begins On Attempt To Kill Filibusters

Western, Northern Senators Seeking To Change Rules

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new 85th Congress, with the Democrats in the drivers' seat, swings into action today with a showdown Senate scrap over an effort to stifle filibusters against civil rights bills and other measures.

The House was in recess, but the Senate was embroiled in a fight sparked by a coalition of Northern and Western Democrats and Republicans to rewrite Senate rules.

A similar attempt four years ago went down to defeat 70-21. Sponsors advanced no victory claims, although they contended they had mustered more strength than they originally expected.

Lined up against them, along with an almost solid phalanx of Southerners, were Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate majority leader, and Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader.

The issue was put before the Senate at its opening session Thursday when Sen. Anderson (D-NM) and 30 other senators offered a motion to take up for immediate consideration the adoption of rules for the new Congress.

Listed as sponsors were 16 Democrats, including Anderson, and 15 Republicans.

Johnson promptly moved to table, and thus kill, Anderson's motion. An agreement was reached to bring the issue to a vote at 6 p. m. today after a debate allowing each side equal time to present its arguments.

Target of the bipartisan group led by Anderson is the Senate rule requiring the votes of 64 senators, or two thirds of the entire membership, to halt a filibuster against civil rights legislation or other measures.

Anderson's followers concede that, as a practical matter, their only hope of revising the rule is to get the Senate to agree it is free to adopt new rules by a majority vote at the start of each Congress, that the previous rules do not carry over.

Opponents argue this is contrary to all precedents, that the Senate, with only a third of its members elected every two years, is a continuing body with continuing rules.

The rules issue cropped up in the Senate after the Democrats took control in the organization of both branches of the new Congress. In the House, the Democrats re-elected Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas.

Probers Rap Safety Of Andrea Doria

WASHINGTON (AP)—Specialists who investigated the Andrea Doria sinking for a House committee said the Italian luxury liner met "by a very narrow margin" certain international safety standards.

In Genoa, owners of the multi-million-dollar vessel disputed this and other findings of a panel which conducted the investigation for the House Merchant Marine Committee.

Probed Ship Sinking

The probe was the outgrowth of the loss of the Doria off the Atlantic coast July 25 after a collision with the Stockholm, a Swedish vessel. The Stockholm was badly damaged, but did not go down. Some 50 persons died.

The investigators, while avoiding placing blame for the incident, said Thursday there were "serious questions" as to whether the Doria and the Stockholm "were being operated in accordance with the precepts of good seamanship and the provisions of the international convention for safety of life at sea."

The report was critical of the way the Doria was fitted with watertight compartments aimed at confining flooding to damaged portions of the ship. It said the Doria barely met international standards in this respect. The investigators also said the information they had indicated that the vessel was not properly ballasted, causing her to list badly after the crash.

Board Seeks Ways To Cut New School Cost

Lausche Again To Vote On Key Senate Issue

Helped Democrats Organize; Won't Talk On Filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP)—On his second day as a senator, Ohio's Frank J. Lausche votes today on still another key Senate issue: A move aimed at ending the historic filibuster.

But again—as on his vote Thursday that helped the Democrats organize the Senate — the Ohio Democrat was not saying in advance which way he would go.

At issue today is a motion by Sen. Anderson (D-NM) designed to revise the Senate rules. Its ultimate purpose is to stop talkfests by senators that stall legislation, particularly civil rights bills.

Although Lausche refused — as do many members of Congress — to say what his vote would be, he did strongly criticize filibusters.

He told reporters in his still skimpily furnished office: "In the campaign, I declared that in my opinion justice required that decisions be made by the Senate on all issues having a relationship to good government."

This, he said, should be done "without defeat of that moral right through filibusters and other dilatory tactics."

Lausche said he recalled lawyers trying to talk at length when he was a judge in Cleveland, in the hope he would rule in their favor. "I didn't think it was sound," he said.

Lausche's senior colleague, Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio), also expressed his views on this subject and said he feels that to rewrite Senate rules would be "unwise."

Asserting that "I shall work diligently to advance effective civil rights legislation," Bricker said in a statement that nevertheless "the pending motion raises a constitutional question."

He went on: "I cannot subscribe to the novel theory that the Senate's 167-year-old rules are no longer in effect. . . . 'cure' which presupposes that the Senate is not a continuing body might prove far worse than the filibuster evil itself."

"In my judgement," said Bricker, "a good civil rights bill can be passed even under the rules of the Senate as they now exist."

The speaker's life-long interest in aviation began when he was a boy in Calcutta, India, where he was born in 1887. He was educated at Harrow, and two years after entering the Royal Military Academy at Woolwich in 1905, he was

Vet Planned To Kill Truman

Blamed Ex-President For Brother's Death

ALBEMARLE, N. C. (AP)—A Korean veteran from Skelton, W. Va., saying he was bent on avenging his brother's death, revealed a weird plan here Thursday to assassinate former President Harry S. Truman.

Frail, 32-year-old Leroy Shadrick, speaking from a cell in the Stanley County jail where he is held for attempted armed robbery, said he holds Truman directly responsible for the death of Pvt. Kenneth Shadrick, July 5, 1950. He was reportedly the first U. S. soldier to die in Korea.

The prisoner said he planned to kill the former president at his Independence, Mo., home next July 5, the seventh anniversary of the soldier's death.

Shadrick was arrested here Dec. 19 when his holdup attempt of the Home Builders Assn. was foiled by the scream of a woman teller.

This robbery, said Shadrick, was to have been the first step in the scheme.

The 102-pound coal miner hoped to get $5,000 from the concern, he said, to use to "hole up" until next July.

While serving with the army in Korea, Shadrick said he began hearing the "voice" of his dead brother.

Actually, he said, he first planned to kill the former president in 1955 but the FBI interred when he was arrested on an income tax fraud charge which had netted him about $2,000.

He said he went to Independence in March, 1955, to "case" the Truman home and learn the former president's routine. He bought a shotgun and ammunition, he said.

He said he had been in and out of several mental institutions.

Methodists Give $10,000 For School

A total of $10,000 was raised at a dinner meeting last night in the Methodist Church, for use in helping to finance construction of a new Methodist Theological School in Ohio. At a similar dinner meeting at the Calvary Church in Steubenville last night, $12,000 was collected for the same project.

A goal of $100,000 is set up for the district, the money to be collected through outright gifts of cash or in pledges on a four-year plan. The sum of $150,000 already has been pledged in Ohio, but it is hoped that an additional $2,500,000 will be received in gifts and pledges within the next four years.

Speakers at the banquet here were Judge William T. Allmon of Carrollton, Atty. Walter J. Hunston of Salem and John Buchanan, a student at Mt. Union College.

Rev. William Snowball, pastor of the Salem Methodist Church, said that 19 cities in the state have offered locations for the proposed school, but that no definite choice has been made by the committee in charge of locating a site.

Salem State Highway Patrolmen Cited 2,389

'56 Area Road Deaths, Injuries Showed Drop

Traffic fatalities in this district dropped from 30 to 10 last year compared with 1955 and injuries decreased from 469 to 443, but there were 35 more accidents, Salem State Highway Patrol statistics show.

Cpl. John Miller, officer in charge of the local barracks, reported that patrolmen investigated 829 accidents in 1956, compared with 794 in 1955.

Almost 200 more people were arrested by patrolmen in 1956 than during 1955. Last year 2,389 persons were cited compared with 2,195 in 1955.

Cpl. Miller said 4,446 written warnings were issued in 1956, 54 more than issued in 1955. Last year patrolmen solved six of 14 hit-skip cases.

The patrol answered 273 complaints and served on 254 special details in 1956.

Patrolmen spoke before 3,420 persons in 81 organizational talks and appeared on radio broadcasts 29 times. They also recovered a total of $4,358.45 in stolen property and arrested 87 drunken drivers.

The patrol spent 1665 hours giving instruction to the patrol auxiliary. Auxiliary patrolmen served 680½ duty hours.

The patrol answered 16,911 phone calls in 1956. A total of 2,260 persons visited the post during the past year on business of all types.

Election Board Gets Set For Lisbon Voting

Continuing preparations for a special election on a 4-mill operating levy Jan. 22 in the Lisbon School District, the County Election Board today appointed 54 precinct personnel after awarding a ballot-printing contract Thursday afternoon.

The Keystone Printing Co. of East Liverpool was awarded a contract to furnish 4,425 ballots on its low bid of $67.37. Other bidders were the Dodge Publishing Co. of Salem, $75, and the Wilson Printing House of East Liverpool, $88.

The board also awarded a contract to the Columbus Blank Book Co. of Columbus to furnish poll books for the nine precincts at $12.50 each, a total of $112.50. Ballot bids were received until noon yesterday.

Clerk Frank R. O'Hanlon said full precinct staffs of six judges and clerks will be used for the special election. Three are named from each major party for each polling place. The area covers six precincts in Lisbon village and three in Center Township. It rejected an 8-mill school operating levy at the Nov. 6 general election.

The board also has asked Lisbon and Center Township clerks to cooperate by renting voting places and arranging for delivery of precinct equipment, O'Hanlon said. A supply of absentee ballots is expected to be delivered by Keystone Monday.

They will be available immediately. Indicating interest in the election, the board already has had enquiries about the absentee ballots, the clerk added.

Presiding judges will be notified to pick up supplies Saturday, Jan. 19, from 9 a. m. to noon at the election board's office in the courthouse. They will be instructed to return them immediately after the election count is made.

Insufficient Funds Present Big Problem

May Trim Size Of Building Or Use Cheaper Materials

By TOM ROSER

If you were a member of the Salem Board of Education seeking to slash $155,312 off the cost of the new Salem senior high school would you:

1. Save the money by cutting down on the quality of the building through use of less-expensive materials.

2. Save the money by reducing the number of rooms from the building.

3. Or begin construction with the funds at hand, and in 1958, when part of the construction bonds have been retired, ask Salem residents to vote additional money to complete the work.

A fourth alternative, made up of a combination of the first two, using cheaper materials and trimming the size of the building, might also be a solution.

Board members, Supt. of Schools E. S. Kerr and School Business Manager Darrell M. Fadely are wrestling with the problem today, hunting a quick solution. Time is somewhat a factor because the board opened bids on the new school Dec. 19 and must let contracts within 30 days if it does not wish to re-advertise for bids. Board members met last night and will confer again next Monday.

Confer With Contractors

Last evening the board, Kerr, and Fadely met with two of the low bid contractors on the project and the school architect to discuss the situation. It was disclosed that miscellaneous expenditures to date have consumed $171,149 of the $2,585,000 bond issue approved by the voters in November, 1955.

Present were Howard Freeman, president of the Freeman Construction Co. of Wooster who made the low bid of $1,525,000 on the general contract; William Mitchell of Youngstown, vice president of the Harry Dougherty & Son Inc., mechanical contractors, who made the low bids on the plumbing and heating and ventilating contracts on bids of $192,000 for the heating and ventilating and $155,800 on the plumbing; and architect Ray Dela Motte of Cleveland.

Fadely reported to the group that the total low bids, including alternate facilities which the board had agreed were necessary, totaled $2,155,312, which is $155,312 above the amount the board had hoped to pay for the new school.

Fadely said it is estimated that equipment will add 10 per cent ($200,000) to the cost of the original estimate of the high school, for a total cost of $2,355,312 for the building and equipment.

Board President Alfred Fitch asked Freeman for his opinions on what steps the board might take. Freeman replied that if the board cut anything from the plans, it would lower the quality of the building. He said he could see no way to cut out much of the cost.

Bonded To Legal Limit

Fitch explained that Salem voters had bonded themselves to the limit of the law at nine per cent bonded indebtedness, and had been promised a remodeled high school and a new senior high.

He said plans were drawn up on this basis and bids received, but the total of the bids left the board short of money.

He said the board could not feel justified in asking the contractors to cut their low bids. However, Fitch pointed out, the total of the bids left the board no money for grounds improvement and landscaping, or for the 1,000-foot street which must be built in front of the school and for other expenses which may arise.

He said there must be a cut back somewhere and "we want the help of the best brains available to decide where the cuts will be."

Board members said an elevation of $155,312 would be needed.

Rail Strike Hurts Canadian Boom

Government Action Unlikely This Week

MONTREAL (AP) — The coast-to-coast strike on the Canadian Pacific Railway cut a little deeper today into the country's prosperous economy. But no government intervention appeared likely before Parliament reconvenes Tuesday.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent told newsmen he had nothing to announce after prolonged Cabinet sessions Thursday on the crippling walkout.

The strike in its first two days has idled 73,000 railroad and other workers and threatens cutbacks and hardships to many points served by CPR's 17,000 miles of track, nearly half of Canada's railway mileage.

St. Laurent indicated that the Cabinet at another meeting Monday may recommend parliamentary action to end Canada's first rail strike since 1950. Any requested legislation likely will not be known until the traditional Speech From the Throne Tuesday outlines the government's plan for the lawmakers.

Some government economists say Canada's powerful economy may not be seriously affected for a week. They estimate that the work stoppage now is cutting national production by a little more than a million dollars daily, or about 1 per cent. They estimate the daily loss after a week may rise to 10 million dollars.

Such a loss over a prolonged period would have a serious impact on national production, expected to reach a record 31 billion dollars this year.

CPR estimates the strike is costing it $1,300,000 daily in lost revenue and the strikers and other idled railway workers five million dollars weekly in wages.

The strike started Wednesday afternoon when about 3,000 members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen quit to protest a proposed gradual elimination of firemen helpers on diesel yard and freight trains.

Other union workers refused to cross the brotherhood's picket lines, and by today some 67,000 other CPR workers were unemployed. Layoffs in other industries served by the railroad climbed to nearly 3,000, with more in prospect if the strike continues.

Reversing a decision by the board of review of the state Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, common pleas judge David G. Gas Fumes Kill Three Members Of Family

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Carbon monoxide fumes killed three members of a Columbus family Thursday. Coroner Dr. Robert A. Evans said the fumes came from an unvented gas heater in the family's two-room, concrete-block house. Police identified the dead as Roy Brown, 30, his wife, Delores, and their daughter, Dorene, 8. The bodies were discovered when a gas meter reader, Dale Buck, 20, was unable to get a response from knocking on the door and through a window saw Brown slumped in a chair.

Brown To Study Sheppard Briefs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's interim governor, John W. Brown, says he will give consideration to appeal briefs of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard. The briefs have been rejected by the Ohio and U.S. supreme courts.

He gave no indication, however, of further action in the case of the convicted Cleveland wife-slayer, now serving a life term for second degree murder.

Brown, who will serve for 11 days until the inauguration of Gov.-elect C. William O'Neill, said he was requested to examine the briefs by Sheppard's attorney, William J. Corrigan of Cleveland. Brown added that Corrigan made no direct request to pardon Sheppard or commute his sentence, actions which Brown as governor has the power to take.

Senator Asks Ike to Tell Costs, Dangers Of Middle East Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) called on President Eisenhower today to give Congress an estimate of the "costs and of the dangers" involved in his proposal for thwarting possible Red aggression in the Middle East.

Mansfield, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Eisenhower should provide this information when he appears before a joint session Saturday.

The senator spoke out in an interview regarding Eisenhower's request for standby authority to use U. S. military forces in the Middle East in event of possible aggression there.

The President will go before an unusual Saturday joint session to press for approval of a resolution which would:

1. Give him advance authority to use U. S. military might if he felt such a move was necessary to block Russian intrusion into the Middle East.

2. Authorize the spending of 400 million dollars over a two-year period beginning next July for economic aid to nations in the strife-ravaged area.

So far there has been little outward opposition in Congress to the Eisenhower administration's Middle East proposals, pictured in some official quarters as needed to fill a power vacuum left by destruction of British and French influence in the region.

Overseas, the administration's proposal for standby troop authority met a hostile reaction from sources in Arab Syria and Egypt and Communist Yugoslavia.

In Damascus, Ihsan El Jabri, chairman of the Syrian Parliament's Foreign Affairs Committee, called the plan "a plot engineered by the imperialists." In Cairo, the newspaper Al Messaa published an article saying Eisenhower's request involves a method "rejected by all the peoples of the world." In Belgrade, the Communist newspaper Borba said that by adopting the Eisenhower plan the United States would risk appearing in Arab eyes "as an heir to the colonial powers."

Six Arrested For Beating Band Director

CAMDEN, S. C. (AP)—Six local men were arrested Thursday in the beating last week of a Camden High School band director they thought favored racial integration.

They were Neal W. Seegars, 62; Homer Wayne Fields, 56; Horace William Frith, 39; Steve B. Broadway, 33; George D. Bigbee Jr., 40; and John Walter McManus, 32.

All six were released from the Kershaw County Jail Thursday night. Seegars and Frith, charged with conspiring against civil rights, posted $3,000 bonds each. The other four, charged with assault and battery on a highly aggravated nature, posted $4,500 bonds each.

Hutchins said four men, their faces covered by masks, attacked him from behind, threw a bag over his head, tied him to a tree, and severely beat him with a board.

Strom said the men told him the attack was made on Hutchins because of remarks in support of integration he made at a Lions Club auxiliary here "two or three years" ago. Hutchins denies ever having made such a speech.

Former Sen. Cain Denies He Has Quit Ohio Job

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Former U. S. Sen. Harry P. Cain denied Thursday reports he had quit a real estate job in Dayton, Ohio, to re-enter politics.

A spokesman for the Leon Ackerman organization said Cain had withdrawn from the Dayton office and returned to his home state of Washington.

Cain, a Republican, home for the holidays, said, "I'm still very much in the organization." The report probably arose, he said, because he did not return to Dayton after the holidays.

The former senator and member of the Subversive Activities Control Board would neither confirm nor deny reports of his re-entering politics.

Jayne Mansfield Faces Suit For Divorce

DALLAS (AP)—A suit for divorce, alleging that actress Jayne Mansfield had caused him "pain, anguish and distress," was filed Thursday by her husband Paul J. Mansfield.

Mansfield said in his petition that he was willing to pay any reasonable sum for the support of their 5-year-old daughter. He stated the couple had married May 6, 1950, and separated Jan. 7, 1955.

At Los Angeles, the actress, who won an interlocutory decree from him there last Oct. 24, said of Mansfield's filing:

"I have no idea why he would do such a thing. All I can say is I hope he has fun."

Stainless Steel Test Plane Melts---

Stainless steel is generally considered a strong, heat-resistant metal, but the pictures below, numbered in sequence, show that in less than seven seconds a stainless steel model airplane burns up and disintegrates in the heat generated by high speeds. The model was tested in a wind tunnel of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics at Langley Field, Va., where major research on breaking the "heat barrier" for supersonic planes is done. The model was "flown" at a simulated 4,500 miles per hour. In nine-tenths of a second the wings and nose got red hot and in 2.5 seconds, pieces of the wings began to tear away. In 6.7 seconds, the plane was a "gone goose."

2 Fined, 4 Forfeit Bonds In Lisbon

LISBON — Two motorists were fined $55 and costs by Mayor Wilbur Warren Thursday, and four others forfeited bonds when they failed to appear for hearings on traffic charges.

Harry Robert Keeran of Coshocton was fined $50 and costs for spilling steel on Rt. 30, just west of Lisbon. Stopped in Minerva, he told officials he knew he lost part of his steel and was trying to locate a phone to report it. Village police put up flares and directed traffic until the steel was removed by a wrecker.

Paul Peppel of Lisbon RD was fined $5 and costs on a charge of failing to yield right of way. The costs were suspended.

Forfeiting bonds were: Thomas Holloman, 32, of Fairbanks, Pa., and John J. Fisher of Cleveland, $15 and $20, respectively, for speeding; Harold J. Yost of Cleveland, $25, reckless operation; and Howard Farley, $25, no valid operator's license.

Atoms For The Farmer

By STANLEY GODFREY

ROME (AP)—Your potatoes are sprouting too much down in the cellar this winter? Dose them with a little radioactivity.

Want to grow roses on a spruce tree? Try radioactive isotope P32.

The peaceful outcrop of the atom can stiffen the stalks of barley and make for quicker and easier harvesting. It can keep green bananas in storage longer before they ripen, tell the scientist why some sheep need more food than others—and aid the farmer in hundreds of different ways.

Throughout the world the search goes on unceasingly for ways and means of using the atom for bringing cheaper, better foods to the market—and getting them there fresher and free of germs.

The food and agricultural organization of the United Nations (FAO) has set up a new committee to correlate and exchange information on ways the atom can help in European agriculture.

The group broke up the experiments underway into four main groups — crop production, soil preservation and enrichment, food preservation, and animal science.

So far as crop production, soil fertility and livestock production are concerned, the amount of isotopes and equipment needed are relatively inexpensive, and training in their use can be acquired in a relatively short time, the group reported.

The main benefit of radiation in these fields lies in its ability to penetrate biological tissues and induce changes in them. For the moment, these changes possible are essentially destructive. Experiments are concentrated on the use of isotopes to kill off insect pests infecting growing crops, livestock, or stored foods and to aid in sterilizing or pasteurizing foodstuffs, like meat, by killing bacteria.

Spenders In The Saddle

We do not think President Eisenhower can be unaware of something pretty sad that will be painfully evident at the beginning of his second term.

The rosy illusion of budget-cutting and tax-reduction that made his countrymen happy four years ago when a new man with new ideas stepped into the White House has vanished.

In its place is the dull-gray reality of an ever-growing budget and no hope of tax reduction. At the beginning of Dwight Eisenhower's second term, spokesmen for his administration speak sternly of higher cost of defense, more foreign aid, more help for local government, more money for atomic programs, more relief for farmers, more money for everybody - but not one shred of comfort for taxpayers! The spenders are back in the saddle.

While the budget has been balanced after a fashion, the balancing has not raised any prospect of tax reduction. It has been achieved by using additional receipts from taxes imposed on a growing country to cover the additional costs of expanding government.

The costs can be justified in the views of those with special needs and opinions. But fond dreams of millions of people who looked forward four years ago to a turnabout in government policy have been shattered. They thought the savers were going to have a big inning.

It didn't happen. It never will happen now. Perhaps it could not have happened anyway. But in the first days of 1953, while the country awaited the inauguration of a new president with a new idea about spending and taxing, the illusion persisted that pending could be curtailed and taxes cut; that inflation could be stemmed; that the purchasing power of money could be stabilized; that the savers could oust the spenders.

Saving will not be mentioned in 1957. Spending is rising at least as fast as tax revenues are increasing. Inflation is a real threat. The purchasing power of money is shrinking, after having been leveled off for three years. The spenders are back in the saddle and riding high.

Beyond Reach

Do you believe modern art can make people feel like being Communists?

Copies of a speech inserted in the Congressional Record last August by Rep. George A. Dondero of Michigan's 18th are being circulated with intent to stir interest in this possibility.

It is not clear how Rep. Dondero became an authority in the field of art, but he has arrived at a conclusion that mischief is a food in the art world. His line of reasoning is curious:

That advocates of isms in art - "from deep red Stalinist to pale pink publicist" - deny any connection with Communism so vehemently they are guilty of "party-line practice."

The connection is not visible or credible to those of us whose idea of art is limited to what the lithographers find suitable for calendars.

But a comparison comes to mind while reading what Rep. Dondero says will happen if we expose ourselves to the insidious influence of visual subversion. Could this be like the lurid warnings of what will happen if we get a whiff of the perfume advertised in the slick-paper magazines just before Christmas?

Nothing happened to us. Nothing at all. There was no message. When this was mentioned, it was pointed out that we were beyond reach, which may be our security against modern art, too.

Mysterious Silence

Frank J. Lausche's revelation that no one in either party uttered a word to him about his plans for leaving the Ohio governorship in time to vote on the organization of the U.S. Senate is too shocking for belief.

It indicates a state of gross neglect of public problems and malfeasance, misfeasance and nonfeasance in both parties and particularly the Democratic party.

If the Democrats of Ohio and the United States are so indifferent to their party's success in carrying Ohio's U.S. Senate seat over to their side in the 1956 election that they never mentioned it to the man who did the job, something has gone wrong with politics.

Republicans hardly could be expected to talk things over with the Democrat who defeated George H. Bender. But does anyone think for a minute they stayed mum when Bender defeated Tom Burke?

Assuming it could be proved no one has talked with the former governor and the junior senator from Ohio about his new responsibilities, Frank Lausche's fellow citizens and especially his fellow Democrats are entitled to an explanation.

U.S. senators represent their states, not themselves. Senators are trustees of the 48 sovereign states in the national legislature. If no one has contacted this state's new senator about things to come, someone in authority has pulled a historic goof.

Patient Preparation

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Eisenhower Doctrine Hinted By Dulles In April

David Lawrence

"broadening" the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to make sure that the all-important oil supply of the Middle East would not be lost to the Western Alliance.

Very little came of the "broadening" idea for while it was intended to cover a more intimate consultation on political and economic matters as well as military strategy, the basic differences of approach between the United States and Great Britain were never reconciled. In fact they tended to widen as Nasser moved closer to the Soviet Union's policies and various complications ensued.

The United States, moreover, which found that Nasser was playing a double game, pulled out of the Aswan Dam negotiations.

It is a sad commentary on the difficulties in conducting international relations these days that the petty partisans in Congress - and some of them abroad - took the position that Secretary Dulles had stopped the Aswan Dam negotiations too "abruptly."

IF THE FULL STORY is ever disclosed it will reveal that America was much more patient during that period of Nasser's attempt at double-dealing than it should have been and that the breakoff of the Aswan Dam negotiations was a wise move because it served notice that the United States would not furnish economic aid to those who were playing ball with the Communists.

The public notice may have been sudden but Nasser knew a long time beforehand that he had mortgaged his resources to an extent which made it impossible to grant the loan.

Then Nasser tore up the Treaty of 1888 and seized the Suez Canal. The subsequent negotiations to try to solve this new problem found America and Britain striving to find some way to internationalize the waterway.

Secretary Dulles was convinced it had to be done through direct negotiations and if this failed, then later through the United Nations machinery.

One of the curious pieces of misrepresentation which has been printed and reprinted widely is that Mr. Dulles came up with a users Association plan last autumn and then backed away from his own proposal. This is a half-truth. Actually he became convinced subsequently that the British and French did not intend to rely on the negotiating process but had reached the conclusion that Nasser must be ousted and by force if necessary. The United States thereupon drew away.

THEN CAME a long drawn out discussion between Paris and London concerning the proper means of dealing with the crisis. America was in the midst of a presidential campaign and this encouraged some British officials to believe that an independent course could be followed by them, even using force, and the United States would not dare to express opposition.

Notwithstanding the very difficult position in which any administration is placed during a presidential campaign when important problems arise in foreign policy, the United States made it crystal clear that it was opposed to the use of force in handling the Suez question.

This view was reiterated so often that when the British and French did decide to go ahead with their plan to use force they preferred not to "consult" the United States government. They didn't do so because they knew ahead of time the Washington Government strongly disapproved.

What they didn't expect was that the United States would go so far as to make this known to the world and would vote in the United Nations to request the British and French to give up their military operations in the Suez area.

The fact that the American Government would need congressional authority to join in any military measures in the event that the Soviet Union upset the peace of the Middle East was known to Prime Minister Eden many months ago.

THE PRESIDENT did not want to call Congress into special session to get a resolution of a "stand-by" or contingent nature passed because it was believed this would alarm the country and give the move more of an emergency significance than it really had.

So it was more or less agreed inside the administration that the time to make such a proposal was at the regular session of Congress beginning in January 1957. It was discussed often in the National Security Council.

But, it has been asserted in dispatches from London that the new plan is the very thing Britain was "begging" America to undertake several months ago. It is not the same plan nor was the climate as favorable then as it is today.

In a sense the British - French intervention in the Suez area has turned out to be a factor favorable to the exercise of American leadership in the Middle East.

The Arab states have more confidence now than ever before in American disinterestedness.

The dispatches and comments from Arab sources in the last few days indicating hostility to the first reports about the "Eisenhower Doctrine" are based on incomplete information and a misunderstanding of the basic objectives.

WHEN ALL the facts are known - especially the intention of the United States to develop a broad international plan rather than a "unilateral" substitution of American for British and French domination of the Middle East - the Arab world will recognize as will London and Paris that the "Eisenhower Doctrine" is an effort to bind all the nations on this side of the iron curtain more closely together politically and militarily, with economic aid as the cornerstone of a peaceful evolution.

There is nothing anti - British or anti - French or anti - Israel or anti - Arab in the plan. It is wholly anti - Communist and pro-Middle East.

And, above all, it calls for complete coordination with the machinery of the United Nations.

New York Herald Tribune

Importance Of Europe

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

From Washington the report is that lawmakers in 1957 may be receptive to President Eisenhower's presumably liberal requests for foreign aid.

In the lengthening postwar history of foreign aid legislation, 1956 was a low point. Appropriations were down substantially from levels sought by the administration, and there was a widespread feeling that the argument for more money had not been well presented.

For 1957, the story promises to be different. Congressmen appear to be alarmed at the events in Hungary and the Middle East.

Their principal concern is the evident weakness in Britain and France, revealed in the ebb and flow of their Egyptian adventure. But they see danger, too, in the turbulence that satellite revolt has brought to Eastern Europe.

Russia's recent reminder that it could drop guided missiles on France and Britain must have helped to point up the fears of many lawmakers. At the same time it may have given them fresh appreciation of the vacuum of power that would develop in Western Europe should any grave decline take place in these two countries.

The altered attitude among congressmen will be welcomed in many quarters where there is recognition of the peril injected into world affairs by the fluidity of present conditions. Once old patterns crumble, few prophets can foretell what events will follow.

The difficulties which today beset Britain and France represent a re-play, in a somewhat different key, of the problems which troubled them and all Western Europe after World War II. Congress acted then, too, because the danger was painfully clear.

Yet it hardly seems like asking too much to expect our legislators to keep a steady awareness of Europe's importance to us in their minds. Only a moderate amount of imagination is required.

Newsletters-Pentagon Headache

By DAVID BARNETT

Congressmen are again inking up their mimeograph machines and security officers at the Pentagon are showing more than usual concern.

The problem: Congressional newsletters that tell more than the military think they should.

The newsletter is a well-established device put out by each of some 100 vest-pocket publishing operations in the House and Senate Office Buildings. Ranging in circulation from about 600 to several thousand, each newsletter provides its congressman - author an opportunity of keeping in touch with the folks back home.

Usually two or three mimeograph sheets long, the newsletters go to rural editors, friends and anybody else who happens to get on the congressman's mailing list.

Generally, they contain long and usually dull explanations of votes, anecdotes about life in the Capital and lists of constituents who have visited the congressman's Washington office.

But some of the congressmen try to provide "scoops" for their readers and many of them, on committees dealing with military or atomic matters, are in a position to do just that.

That's where the security boys wish they could come in. Material released from the Pentagon normally goes first to the security and review section which screens the releases for classified information.

In a recent newsletter, Rep. James Patterson wrote:

"Military experts are today stressing, more than ever, the increasing importance of tanks and modern armor weapons and our ability to counter those of the Soviets in event of war."

"Our own army experts admit that our light vehicular capability is no match today for that of the Russians. They say that a tank equipped with a 90-millimeter rifle with a muzzle velocity of 5,500 feet per second is urgently needed to pierce five or six inches of steel on present Soviet tanks. Emphasis is placed on the necessity of reducing tank size from 58 tons to 25 tons and eventually to 12 tons for airborne operations."

The congressman received a visit from an officer of the legislative liaison office maintained at the Capitol by the Defense Department. The officer suggested that it might be wise for the congressman to submit such material to the security and review section before it is released to the public.

The request was politely but firmly denied. Congressmen usually consider themselves competent to protect the country's legitimate secrets.

Some of the administrative personnel at the Pentagon are so jittery about the problem that one division head suggested that the Defense Department formally request members of the appropriations and armed services committees to submit their newsletters for review.

A member of the security and review staff said the suggestion had been turned down by "more experienced hands."

The informal approach by a liaison officer, however, sometimes does some good. In his most recent newsletter, Rep. Patterson lists some of the new weapons developed during the past year by the Army. Those listed were well-publicized achievements such as the development of the aerocycle, the contraption on which a soldier can rise from the ground and fly himself to another area.

The newsletter adds: "Numerous other advancements have been made that need not be mentioned here."

Future Of Power Policy

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Harnessing the Snake River for the production of electricity and other purposes might seem academic to those Americans who do not live in the Northwest. Since they are taxpayers the present controversy over that subject is very real indeed and the partnership policy of the Eisenhower administration which would unload a considerable part of the building of hydroelectric plants on private investors rather than taxpayers is now about to meet its greatest test.

Wayne Morse, Warren Magnuson and other zealous advocates of federally socialized power interpret their victories at the polls last November as a repudiation of the President's power policies.

The center of their attack will be what is done about the Snake River, which flows through a deep canyon most of the way between Idaho and Oregon and then moves into the state of Washington where it joins with the Columbia River.

A bit of geographical description is essential to an understanding of the problem. Along the lower reaches of the Snake in Washington are four sites for which federal dams are already authorized or under construction by the Army Engineers. They are called Ice Harbor, Lower Monumental, Little Goose and Lower Granite.

Above these in the canyon that separates Idaho and Oregon are several sites which have been under consideration from time to time. The most important of these in their order from the Washington boundary, going upstream, are Nez Perce, Mountain Sheep, Pleasant Valley and Hells Canyon.

At the Hells Canyon site the Federal Power Commission after a long hearing decided in 1955 to permit the Idaho Power Company to build three dams instead of a higher federal dam.

Some years ago there was under consideration a federal dam at Mountain Sheep but engineers found a weakness in the canyon walls which made it impossible as a site for a high structure.

During the past year four of the private utilities in the region have joined in an application to the Federal Power Commission to build two dams, at Pleasant Valley and Mountain Sheep.

This has been bitterly opposed by the same organization, the National Hells Canyon Association, which opposed the Idaho Power Company's application for the dams at Hells Canyon.

This association is largely supported financially by a number of labor organizations, notably the United Automobile Workers and the two big garment workers' unions.

It was assumed all along that the people opposing the application of the private companies favored a high federal dam at Pleasant Valley, which if built would inundate the lower of the three sites granted the Idaho Power Company.

Indeed it has appeared that the Federal Bureau of Reclamation has such a plan in mind and that Secretary Seaton knows all about it.

But suddenly, in late November, the attorney for Hells Canyon Association, a Mrs. Evelyn Cooper, who worked in the Interior Department under the Truman Administration, shifted the strategy and came out against a dam at Pleasant Valley built "by anybody." Also at about the same time Sen. Morse proposed that the Idaho Power project should be scrapped and that a high federal dam be built at Hells Canyon. Also that the Nez Perce site be "reserved" for five years.

The reason for this delay, Sen. Morse explained, would be to get a way to permit salmon to get up the rivers for breeding.

Since the Congress has repeatedly refused to build a high dam at Hells Canyon and the delay at Nez Perce would be indeterminate, this strategy is clearly a means of stalling any construction at all, presumably in the hope that the federal administration will scrap its partnership policy and agree to a high federal dam at Pleasant Valley.

In this situation it ought to be made clear by the President and Secretary Seaton exactly where the administration stands.

Is it going to maintain the partnership policy or not?

The taxpayers of the nation have a deep interest in this because a compromise would mean a federal expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Story For The First Week

New Year's day was past and Christmas seemed a distant memory. The man was thinking of all the New Year wishes and reflecting what his own best wish would be, as he realized 1957 had already begun rolling.

He wished he could retain more of the glow of Yuletide; not the merriment that came with the frothy, superficial routines, but the genuine glow that had come in the home's blessed moments of consecration.

The man wished there might linger longer the beauty and the innocent wonderment in a child's eyes on Christmas morning, and the sound of moppets' laughter at the foot of a tree.

HE CLOSED HIS EYES and wished that the perfume of spruce and pine could still be sensed and the spell cast by the tinsel, the candles, the candy canes and the artificial snow made more enduring. Week back all these had seemed so genuine, uplifting and heart-warming.

Now January was in high gear and the man winced as he saw a stripped Christmas tree in a trash can, and another in a gutter.

He went into the cellar to see about the furnace and shook his head as he saw the cartons in which the electric lights and the Santa Claus figure had been packed for another year.

NOW IT WAS "business as usual" all over the city, with the jostlings, elbowings and every-man-for-himself mood returning. All the voices seemed to be saying, "On the double!" — "Get this out at once!" — and "Step on it, Buster!"

The man wished for a little of the courtesy, brotherly love and patience of 10 days back. The clatter of cabs, grinding of bus brakes and roar of police cars assailed his ears, and the man wished for the music of children making with the carols . . . and the old hymns of the ages invoking the reverence of a holy night.

SOMEBODY SNAPPED, "Watch where you're going!" and the man wished for the mood of a previous week, so soon vanished. "Next bus!" barked a bus driver, slamming the door in his face and the man wondered whatever had become of the mood that went with sleigh bells, cantatas, gift-giving, gentle considerations, hibiscus, laurel and holly. The man wished January wouldn't come bashing in so aggressively.

ONLY YESTERDAY everybody had been smiling and saying, "Happy New Year, pal!" Now he was getting rushed through a revolving door by folks with no time to waste, a man in an auto had screamed, "Whatzamattah? Ya wanna get killed?"

And when he got to the office he knew the boss would look at the clock and say, "Late again, eh!" The shepherds and the magi seemed extra far away. The New Year greetings now shaped up as things in the distant past.

THE MAN SEEMED LOST in thought now. A stranger in the usual post-holiday hurry barged against him and knocked him off the sidewalk. "Happy New Year!" the man said, now quite confused. "Save it," snapped the stranger. "You've got eleven months and three weeks to go!"

One of the most flabbergasting requests heard by us during the recent Yuletide was a grandmother's urgent, "If you buy any liquor be sure to get it in one of those bottles that I can use for a candleabra!"

He escaped two years later and landed in Yugoslavia by mistake while trying to make his way to Italy by boat. He arrived in Italy two years ago and is in a refugee camp near Rome.

Faganeu said he had been "kicking around Europe" mostly as a political refugee for the last 23 years and had been shoveling snow without pay for various city governments.

Down On The Farm
New Farm Corn Allotments

Any producer who intends to plant corn in 1957 on a farm where there was no corn acreage during the years 1954, 1955 and 1956 must apply for a corn acreage allotment if he wants to participate in any phase of Soil Bank Program in 1957, L. L. Moff, chairman of the Mahoning County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, says.

Marketing quotas do not apply to corn, the chairman explained. However, under the present program, the production of corn in 1957 on a farm which has no corn acreage allotment would make the corn produced on the farm ineligible for the maximum price support in 1957 as well as effect his participation in the Soil Bank Program.

Application forms for corn acreage allotments are available at the County ASC office in Canfield. The last day applications may be filed is Jan. 31.

Deadline for Grain Loans
Jan. 31 also is the final date for approving loans and purchase agreements for wheat, barley, oats, rye and soybeans.

However, applications must be in before this date to allow time to complete the necessary inspections and other details, Moff reports. "We suggest that applications be filed at the County Office, 7 West Main St., Canfield, on or before Jan. 18."

Initial Signup for 1957
The initial signup for 1957 ACP Farm Program will be held at the Mahoning County ASC office in Canfield from Jan. 14 to Jan. 31, inclusive.

Mahoning County farmers who want to apply lime or any of the other 21 government approved practices during 1957 will have an opportunity to sign up at this time.

Farmers who expect to perform any of the approved practices before June 30, should take advantage of the initial sign-up period and must sign up before starting the practice to be eligible to receive federal - cost sharing in the performance of the practice, points out A. G. Cobourn, office manager Mahoning County ASC Committee.

If you're wondering what to do with leftover rice, fold it into vanilla pudding before the dessert sets.

Special prizes went to Miss Kathleen Devine and Mrs. Joseph Good. Lunch was served by the January social committee.

Democrat Chiefs To Meet Today

Congressmen Boycott Advisory Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic Advisory Committee set up to advance a party program between elections was to hold its first session today with a slim attendance in prospect.

However, three of the party's top figures — former President Harry S. Truman, Adlai E. Stevenson and M. R. Franklin D. Roosevelt — are to be on hand. Stevenson Thursday aimed a shaft at his party's congressional leaders who largely are boycotting the advisory group.

He said "To be an effective opposition, the Democratic party must have a broader base than the Democrats in Congress," adding:

"We can't be an effective opposition party just every four years for a couple of months." Truman, arriving in Washington Thursday night, declined comment.

Nine of the 11 senators and representatives named to the advisory committee by Democratic National Chairman Paul A. Butler have indicated they will not serve, a national committee aide said.

Many of these are understood to feel that it is up to them to develop the Democratic program and make the party's record.

Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), in declining Butler's invitation, said he felt the legislative process already was involved enough without the intrusion of a committee that has no legal status.

But both he and Speaker of the House Rayburn (D-Tex.), who also declined, said they would be glad to consult with and receive the ideas of the committee.

Creation of the advisory group was sparked by a group of militants in the Democratic Executive Committee after the Nov. 6 election. These urged that the party develop its own programs to counter those put forward by the Eisenhower administration.

Highway Slaughter Hit New High In '56

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's motorists set an all-time record for highway slaughter in 1956, the National Safety Council says.

The number of traffic dead was placed Thursday at 40,020 — 231 more than the old record of 39,969 set in 1941, and a 5 per cent rise in the 1955 total of 38,426.

The council said it based its figure on the actual count for the first 11 months of the year, plus an estimate for December. The toll for the first 11 months was 36,000.

The new high culminated an ever-increasing trend in reports of auto fatalities. For 29 months in a row, the trend was upward. It was broken by a surprise drop of 12 per cent in October, but then resumed again in November.

Superintendent Of Insurance Is Named

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Appointment of Robert E. Younger as state superintendent of insurance was announced today by W. Harper Annatt, state commerce director.

Younger, who has been deputy superintendent since July 1955, succeeds August Pryatel, who resigned Wednesday.

Younger has been in the division of insurance for 5½ years. He was an assistant attorney general in 1949-50 under the late Herbert F. Duffy.

REPUBLICAN DINNER SET

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Republican state chairman Ray C. Bliss will be host at a Jan. 8 dinner here for Republican members of the 102nd Ohio general assembly. GOP state headquarters announced Thursday. Also invited were Gov. John W. Brown and Gov. elect C. William O'Neill.

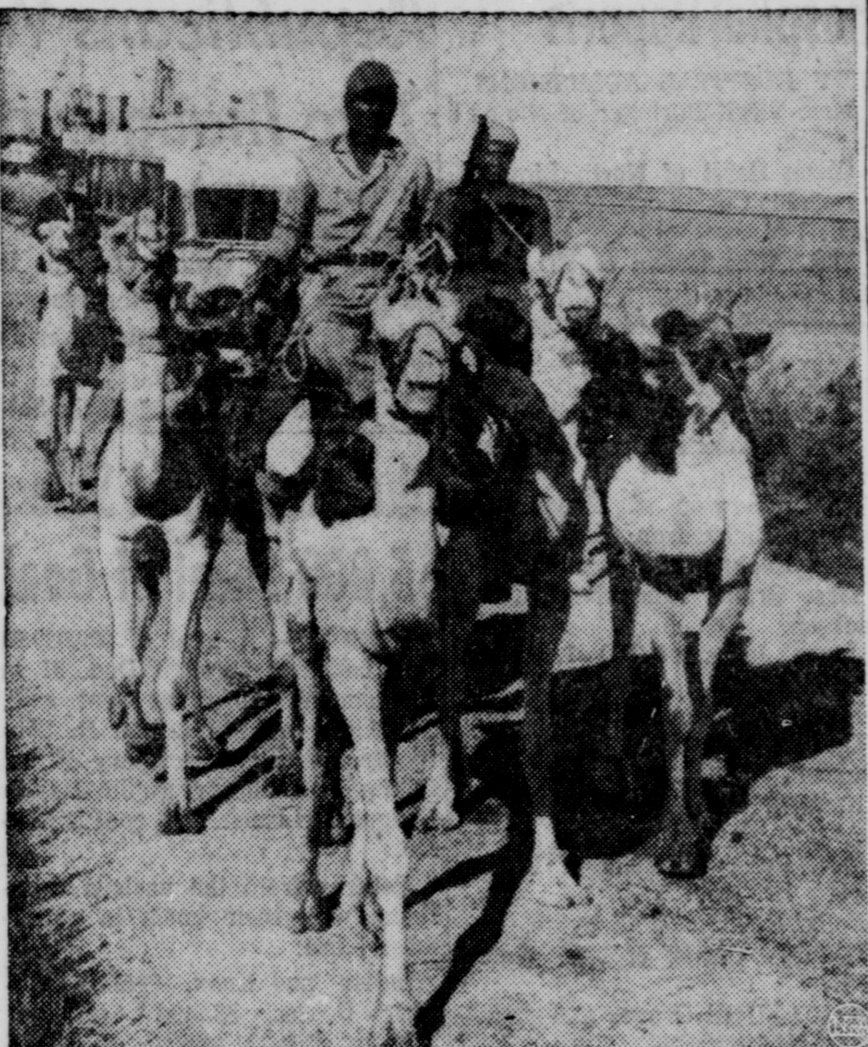

The Truth Comes Out

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A woman called police Thursday, alarmed because she was "talking to a lady on the phone a while ago and now she won't answer."

A few minutes later the police dispatcher announced everything was all right.

"The woman said she fell asleep while her friend was talking," the dispatcher explained.

LUCKY MAN — Rudolph J. Buoni, 24, examines what's left of his 12-gauge shotgun at Columbus. To celebrate the arrival of the New Year, he pointed the trigger skyward and pulled the trigger. There was a loud report and the gun shattered into six pieces. Buoni, unhurt, is still trying to figure out what happened.

CANAL PATROL—Mounted on camels, Egyptian troops patrol a road along the Suez Canal. The United Nations salvage fleet is busily engaged trying to clear the 101-mile-long waterway.

U. S. Set to Sell Farm Goods To Red Poland

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration was reported today to let Communist Poland buy surplus U. S. farm goods with dollars at world market prices.

This would be the first step, officials said, in the Eisenhower program of helping any country that breaks away from Moscow during the initial stages of its economic estrangement from the Soviet bloc.

The Commerce Department is expected to announce shortly the lifting for Poland of export licensing restrictions which barred Poland and other Iron Curtain countries from buying surplus U. S. farm goods for dollars at world prices.

The restriction imposed as administrative policy two years ago, dealt specifically at that time with butter. The argument was that otherwise the Reds could buy U. S. butter cheaper than the American housewife could. Domestic farm prices, propped up by U. S. farm subsidies, are generally higher than world market prices.

Man Cut In Two By Train Lives 5 Hours

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — John Bobbitt, 46, was cut in two by a switch engine Thursday but amazed doctors by clinging to life more than five hours.

Through three of those hours he talked with his wife, a minister and doctors, who told him almost from the outset he would die. He did not appear in much pain. Then doctors gave him an anesthetic and he died two hours later.

"I never heard of such a thing," said Dr. J. W. Well. "Most people injured in that way are dead when you see them."

Dr. Well said the crushing injury, across the abdomen, sealed off blood vessels and there was almost no bleeding.

Coroner Henry H. Sweets said Bobbitt told several persons he threw himself in front of the switcher. Relatives said he had been nervous recently.

Zoologist Has Good Word For Spiders

LOS ANGELES — A UCLA zoologist has put in a good word for large desert scorpions, black widow spiders, tarantulas and other crawling creatures. They're not so bad, he says.

Dr. Raymond Cowles said the sting of the large scorpion is little more severe than that of a bee. It's the smaller ones in southern Arizona and Mexico that cause deaths, he wants it known.

The black widow's bite, though painful, is seldom lethal, says the doctor, and he thinks the fear-some looking tarantula, although it bites, actually makes a good pet.

Father Accused Of Killing Baby After Winning Its Custody

CINCINNATI (AP) — Detective Chief Henry Sandman said charges would be filed today in the death Wednesday night of an 11-month-old baby girl who was the central figure only a month ago in a custody suit filed by her mother.

Detectives John Green and Lytle Young said Bruce Handley, 21, listed as the baby's father, admitted choking and beating Victoria Ann Wednesday night because he was "angry" with her when she cried while he was watching television.

The baby's mother, Mrs. Joyce

Handley, 21, was visiting relatives at the time.

Green and Young said Handley first told them bruises on Victoria Ann's body came from his efforts at artificial respiration after she became ill. They said he later admitted choking the baby twice and said he then tried artificial respiration to revive the child.

Dr. Frank Cleveland, coroner's pathologist, said an autopsy showed death was due to internal hemorrhages from a ruptured liver.

Victoria Ann figured in the news late in November when her mother filed suit against Mr. and Mrs. William Woodrow Scott of near-by Batavia, Ohio. She claimed they were holding Victoria Ann in lieu of a $600 board bill which the Scotts claimed was owed them for care of the child.

The Scotts had cared for the child since last May while the Handleys went on a "second honeymoon" after Handley returned from military service.

The suit finally was dropped after the Scotts gave up the child and after Mrs. Handley signed a release saying the baby was in good health.

Canfield Patrol
Lists Rt. 18 As
'Most Dangerous'

Route 18 continued to be the Canfield State Highway Patrol district's most dangerous highway in 1956, with Rts. 7 and 224 second and third in that order it was revealed today by accident statistics compiled at the Canfield barracks.

In 1955, Rts. 224 and 18 were the most perilous highways.

Last year Canfield patrolmen investigated 680 accidents, a drop of eight as compared with the 1955 total.

Last January was the worst month of the year, accident-wise, with 69 mishaps reported. December ranked second with 68 mishaps. The month with the least amount of accidents was April, with 40.

Accidents in other months totaled: February, 41; March, 62; May, 54; June, 59; July, 53; August, 51; September, 45; October, 60; and November, 63.

Patrolmen made 62 more arrests last year than during 1955. In 1956 arrests totaled 2,132, while in 1955 2,070 persons were cited. Of the 1956 total, 1,343 were traffic arrests; 442 as a result of accidents; 337, misdemeanors, and 10, felonies. The comparable figures in 1955 were: 1,420, 360, 262 and 28.

Canfield patrolmen issued 3,474 written warnings during 1956, considerably fewer than the 1955 total of 4,862.

The number of persons killed or injured in mishaps investigated by Canfield patrolmen has not been compiled.

Police Search For Missing Actress

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP) — Actress Marie (The Body) McDonald vanished from her home early today, and police were investigating whether she had been kidnapped.

The blonde beauty's mother, Mrs. Marie Tuboni of nearby Woodland Hills, told police she received a phone call at 12:45 a.m. at her own home. A "male, young, nervous voice" told her: "We have Marie. No harm will come to her if police are not notified."

The mother called police, then rushed to her daughter's home in Encino. She found the front door ajar and lights blazing in Miss McDonald's bedroom.

The three house servants were sleeping. Soon after the call to Mrs. Tuboni, the actress' former husband, wealthy shoe manufacturer Harry Karl, received a call.

"We have your wife," he quoted the male caller. "If you want to see her alive again, don't contact police. We'll contact you later."

Found in Miss McDonald's mailbox, police said, was a penciled note not in her handwriting. It read:

"Don't call police. She won't be hurt to get money. We'll get in touch with you."

Inspector Henry Kerr, asked if police believe it was a kidnapping, said: "It's too early to tell."

Another police officer, declining to be quoted by name, said when asked the same question, "We're very skeptical."

Area Man Critically
Injured In Crash

A North Lima man is in serious condition today as the result of an auto accident Thursday.

The victim, Lemuel W. Mentzer, 83, received a fractured skull and fractured ribs after his car apparently ran through the intersection of Route 7 and Route 165, just south of North Lima, Thursday at 2:10 p.m. and collided with an auto driven by Thomas Reasbeck, 30, of Martins Ferry.

Reasbeck told Canfield state highway patrolmen that Mentzer's car pulled out in front of him. Mentzer was traveling west on Rt. 165 and Reasbeck, south on Rt. 7 when the mishap occurred.

Mentzer was taken to Youngstown South Side hospital. Another area road mishap involved cars driven by Alfred Crescento, 40, of Columbiana and Andrew Grubbs, 32, also of Columbiana.

Neither man was injured when their cars collided at the intersection of the Middleton-Fairfield Road and Cooper Township Road, three miles southeast of Columbiana, Thursday at 7:15 a.m.

Dr. Beaver to Head

Leetonia School Board

LEETONIA — Dr. Paul H. Beaver was elected president of the Leetonia Schools Board of Education at the annual organizational meeting Tuesday.

Elected vice president was Dr. Paul Conrad who acted as board president during 1956.

During the brief business session, it was decided to hold sessions of the board at 8 p.m. on the second Wednesday of each month.

School Board

tor, which was bid at $9,656, may be omitted.

Fitch declared that the board did not want to readvertise for bids again.

Architect Dela Motte agreed that readvertising for bids now probably would result in higher bids, since the board advertised through November and December, the best time of the year to seek bids while contractors are competing for the work of the coming year.

Auditorium Plans Dropped

Fitch said the board also did not want to be forced to tell the public they could not get the present high school remodeled.

"They had expected an auditorium in the new school," he continued, a reference to the fact that the auditorium had to be dropped from this phase of the construction due to lack of funds.

Freeman declared that the Salem board was "not the first to be embarrassed in this manner when the bids were opened."

He and the board discussed use of a cheaper brick in the new school, and Freeman estimated a saving of about $8,000 could be made in this way.

Other revisions discussed included using steel sash and steel doors instead of aluminum.

Dela Motte estimated that the steel doors would be $250 to $300 cheaper per door. The architect added that some money could be saved by use of cheaper materials on the roof deck.

He told the board that although some savings could be had through use of cheaper finishes, $150,000 couldn't be cut off the cost in this manner. He said it appeared that something in the building would have to be cut out.

Freeman agreed there appeared to be two courses — cut quality or cut area. He also agreed with Dela Motte that it didn't appear possible to save the entire $150,000 through cuts in quality.

Use of acoustic plaster instead of acoustic tile was discussed as was porcelainized steel instead of aluminum panels and paint instead of plaster in some areas.

Dela Motte gave a rough estimate that about $50,000 could be cut off the cost through use of less expensive materials.

Freeman said that it seemed to him as a taxpayer, that by use of cheap materials the board was simply passing the problem on to future boards of education who will have to cope with high repair and maintenance bills.

Other Rising Costs Foreseen

Orelin Naragon agreed that the board does not wish to boost the maintenance costs of the new high school. He pointed out that the school system's operating costs will increase once the new building is erected through need of a staff for the school and maintenance costs for it.

Freeman then said it appeared the board should ask the taxpayers for more money.

Donald Lease of the board said this was impossible "because the people have already voted themselves into debt right up to the legal limit."

Freeman said that perhaps the $150,000 could be secured when the building is nearly complete after some bonds have been retired.

Mitchell, the Dougherty representative, was asked for his views on the matter. He said the architects had designed the building so that the heating and ventilating could be done as cheaply as is possible. He said he could see little the board could do to trim the cost of the structure.

Fitch then opened a discussion on trimming the size of the building. Dela Motte and Supt. Kerr pointed out that the building already was five classrooms short of state recommendations and it appeared nothing else could be left out.

Lease questioned Dela Motte about what other boards of education have done in similar situations. "They go ahead and build and get the equipment money later," the architect replied.

He repeated that this would be a poor time for the board to advertise for bids since the bids would be higher next time.

The board agreed to contact Freeman shortly on specific changes in materials and to take the matter up again as quickly as possible so that the contracts can be let.

The board will discuss the project again next Monday evening at its regular January meeting.

Voters at the November, 1955 election approved a $2,585,000 bond issue for the construction of the school and renovation of the present high school into a three-year junior high. The board had agreed to try to keep the cost of the new school at two million dollars.

$171,149 Already Spent

Fadey reported that $171,149.70 has been spent to date on the project.

This included $58,890.96 for cost of land, fees and test borings; $2,910.63 for issuance of bonds; $72,000 paid to the architect to date;

$19,767.34 spent on Vine and Ohio St. properties; $4,394.62 to Damascus Lumber for new offices added to the present high school; $6,525 to Firestone Electric for wiring new offices and a new electrical panel in the high school; and $6,210 to Damascus Lumber for the new floor in the gymnasium.

This leaves a balance on hand of $2,413,850.30, he said. Other expenditures already contracted for total $55,725, which will leave an unencumbered balance in the construction fund of $2,358,125, just slightly above the amount required for the building and equipment as the bids now stand.

break of World War I, taking part in the battles of Mons, LeGateau, Marne and Aisne. He also served in Egypt and Italy during the war, winning awards for heroism.

Between wars, Sir Philip served as commandant of the Royal Air Force Staff College as chief of Britain's Coastal Command and as commander-in-chief of the RAF in India.

Following his tour of duty as air chief marshal, highest air post offered by his country, he served as deputy chief of staff to Lord Mountbatten in the Southeast Asia Command. He joined the Air Ministry as Director of Public Relations at the end of World War II.

Having retired from active military service in 1947, he is now serving as a director of a combined services charity group in England.

Air Force groups from all NATO nations are invited each year to the biggest air show in Britain, Searchlight Tattoo, which he produces.

During the war years, Sir Philip broadcast to the British people and to North America when Prime Minister Winston Churchill was unable to conduct his "fireside chats" during the Battle of Britain.

A brilliant conversationalist, he is noted for his forceful personality, sparkling wit, and his encyclopedic knowledge of military matters.

An author, he is completing a book on rocketry and guided missiles. His first two books are an autobiography, "The Fated Sky," and a story behind the RAF, "The Third Service."

Although this is his first visit to the United States, Sir Philip has many friends among the American military leaders with whom he worked during the war years. One such friend, Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, retired American commander of the Eighth Air Force in Britain, now an executive of the Hughes Aircraft Company, said, "American audiences will find Sir Philip Joubert an excellent, entertaining, worthwhile speaker."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

There's a bright midwest labor fellow who has borrowed himself some money from a bank and taken himself a partner and is building himself an office "skyscraper" as a personal investment.

This is not a union building. It is a commercial job — and so the labor man doubles as union leader and capitalist via the real estate route. Now, this multi-million dollar operation is his private business and a legitimate one at that.

The code in this corner is not to intrude on a man's privacy. So, at least here, you won't find his name.

This is his own private business, as I said but in the highest labor circles there now is considerable discussion over whether a labor leader should also be a private businessman and if so, just how deeply he should go into business and just how any union leader's being businessman, investor, or relator affects his own union, specifically, and the labor movement, in general.

THIS DISCUSSION began officially at the recent sessions of the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee. And it should be set down that this is not a discussion of illegitimate investments or even legal looting.

Labor's high command simply is beginning to face the facts of life. There are scores of labor leaders who are highly successful businessmen and commute regularly between the office behind the dues wicket and the executive suites behind the gold lettering on the fronts of banks, brokerage houses, insurance companies, real estate offices and even emporiums of more exclusive tastes and clientele.

At the last session of the Ethical Practices Committee, the boys began to consider a "code of conduct" for such labor leaders.

What must be decided is whether there is a conflict of interests in such activities. This would startle the British, French and German Socialist labor leaders who spend their time politicking along class lines. But here, every man's golden opportunity is born equal.

THE PROBLEM is whether a labor leader would be as shrewd a businessman if he did not operate from the vantage point of his union. There are some fellows, for example, who place millions of dollars worth of pension and welfare funds in dignified old banks around the countryside. The celluloid collar crowd has long gone from behind the managerial desks of these banks — and the new men see great vistas in labor's millions.

So when a labor leader drops in to discuss his own union's deposits, there is naturally discussion of other investments just happening to lie around on the bank's counter.

As a result there have been union chiefs in the past few years who have deposited their outfit's millions and picked up three or four mortgages for their own investment at the same time. All with good, redeemable American cash. But nevertheless, the union chiefs would not have known of these golden opportunities if they had not had the union gold to deposit.

SOME LABOR CHIEFS have bought valuable property for their unions in outlying states — and have picked up adjoining bits of yardage for themselves.

They have known in advance of areas through which pipelines were to go, or which streets were to be demolished for new housing developments or roads. And they have bought in on the deal.

There are union chiefs who have purchased stock because they knew the company planned to expand and would need thousands of skilled workers for some special government project.

And there are union officials who invest millions of dollars a year on the market for their organizations and work so closely with the brokerage house that they are able to pick up some stock of their own.

There are others who know of big construction projects in advance — such as an airport or exposition, who then go up and buy restaurants or stores nearby.

LABOR MEN are in everything — shipping companies, hotels, steel mills, electronic plants, jewelry firms, transportation, construction — you name it.

What the Ethical Practices Committee now is asking the AFL-CIO Executive Council to decide at its mid-winter session in Miami is whether there is conflict of interest by labor leaders and their unions. This is just the beginning.

What the high command must consider is whether there may come a time when some labor leaders, who are also businessmen, will be sitting on both sides of the table, bargaining with themselves.

Return Bout Between Fullmer, Robinson Appears Sure

To Meet Again In Mid-March

5,000 Turned Away From Previous Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — A return bout between newly crowned middleweight champion Gene Fullmer and dethroned Ray Robinson was just about set today for New York in mid-March.

Fullmer okayed the second fight, promoter Jim Norris wants it, and there was every indication the 36-year-old Robinson would officially say yes this afternoon.

Robinson lost his title on a unanimous 15-round decision at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night.

George Gainford, "chief adviser" in the Robinson camp, said the Sugar Man had told him he wanted the rematch at the earliest possible date.

Robinson himself indicated after his losing effort he was eager for the chance to win the title for the fourth time as well as to earn another big payday. He collected $138,190 while Fullmer received only $20,915. For the return each will get 30 per cent.

Norris said about 5,000 fans had been turned away in a surprise sellout Wednesday. The fight lured 13,145 cash customers and grossed $194,645. The radio and television receipts were $100,000, even though New York and Philadelphia were blacked out.

"We could draw between $250,000 and $275,000 for the return at the Garden in the middle of March if we have another local blackout of TV," said Norris. "That, however, is up to the sponsors."

"We're ready," said Fullmer's manager Marv Jensen. "We want the big money now."

Gainford, meanwhile, let loose another blast at Fullmer for "illegal punching" and at referee Ruby with a "half butt and push" used Goldstein's officiating.

Big George claimed again Fullmer hit low, dropped Robinson with a "half butt and push" used rabbit punches (blows to the back of the neck) and rubbed the laces of his gloves against Robinson's face.

Fullmer flatly denied the charges. He said he hit Robinson mostly on the side of the head and ears when Sugar Ray tried to tie him up inside.

Goldstein backed up Fullmer. "There were no rabbit punches," said the referee. "Fullmer might have hit him on the side of the head but that was because Robinson was holding him and ducking his head to avoid Fullmer's punches. Fullmer was just too strong for Robinson. He's not the Robinson of old. He and Benny Leonard were the greatest fighters I've ever seen but Wednesday it was an older Robinson."

Fullmer, meanwhile, prepared to cash in with appearances on network television shows over the weekend. He will enplane to Salt Lake City Monday enroute to his West Jordan, Utah, home.

After a week's rest, he'll return to his job as an apprentice welder at Bingham, Utah, copper mines. He received $17.96 a day.

To Plan Tournament

The Salem Women's Bowling Association meeting to plan for the annual city tournament meeting will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. at the American Legion Home in Lisbon. Tournament rules will be the main topic of discussion. All members are urged to attend.

Dukes Upset Dayton 79-71; Xavier Trips W. Kentucky

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

This looks like one season Dayton Coach Tommy Blackburn isn't going to pull a rabbit out of the hat.

In the past he has shrugged off all graduation losses and with some rebuilding magic has managed to keep the Flyers among the giants in college basketball. He has a 732 winning percentage in a decade at Dayton. His only losing year was his first (12-14).

But with big Bill Uhl, Ray Dieringer and Jimmy Paxson gone from last season's NIT runner-up squad, this figured to be Blackburn's toughest season. And that's what it looks to be. Even early victims won't stay dead.

Call Boxer, Gambler In Fight Fix Probe

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Boxer Art Aragon and ex-gambler Mickey Cohen appeared before the county grand jury Thursday as witnesses in a probe of an alleged fixed fight involving Aragon and Dick Goldstein in San Antonio, Tex.

Cohen's appearance was brief and his testimony concerned itself chiefly with an accusation that police "are conspiring to take my life." Before he entered the jury room he squared off in the corridor with a policeman, but the fight, like the Aragon-Goldstein fight, didn't come off.

Cohen challenged Sgt. William Foreman to "take off your badge," but the officer kept it on.

Last week Goldstein told the jury that Aragon summoned him to his home Dec. 7 and offered him $500 to lose the San Antonio fight, which was cancelled at the last moment when Aragon was found to have a fever.

Dist. Atty. William B. McKesson said he had a "hunch" Cohen was connected with the alleged fight fix.

The grand jury has postponed action, pending the appearance of other witnesses from San Antonio. Aragon and Goldstein, both of Los Angeles, are welterweights.

Duquesne, another fallen giant, took an 8-45 thumping from the Flyers in the Blue Grass Tournament at Louisville last week, but Thursday night the Dukes up and bopped the Flyers — at Dayton — 79-71.

Duquesne, led by Dave Ricketts' 23 points, took a 33-24 lead at the half and never trailed as Dayton's record sank to 5-6. It was one of a number of surprises Thursday night. Xavier of Ohio upset Western Kentucky, ranked 14th in this week's Associated Press poll, 87-79; Utah State rocked Utah 68-64 in overtime; Bradley battered St. John's of Brooklyn 97-78; Florida State, after nine defeats in a row, won its first of the season with a 108-96 job on Furman for third place in Senior Bowl Tournament.

In "form" games, 17th-ranked Oklahoma City whipped Arizona 80-55; Wake Forest, No. 18, defeated George Washington 72-54; and Spring Hill repeated as the Senior Bowl champ with an 83-79 decision over Morehead (Ky.).

Pistons, Warriors Gain On Leaders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The pro league of basketball — the National Basketball Assn. — has been in business on eleven years, but already it has an old adage: "The only safe lead is a one-point lead at the final buzzer."

The Fort Wayne Pistons and Philadelphia Warriors proved it Thursday night as they came from far behind to edge closer to the leaders in the NBA's division races.

Cohen challenged Sgt. William Foreman to "take off your badge," but the officer kept it on.

Last week Goldstein told the jury that Aragon summoned him to his home Dec. 7 and offered him $500 to lose the San Antonio fight, which was cancelled at the last moment when Aragon was found to have a fever.

Pacific Coast Tackles Aid To Grid Players

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Pacific Coast Conference today tackled the intricate problem of financial aid for football players and other athletes after knocking down any possibility that previously assessed penalties would be eased.

A recommendation by the powerful presidents' council, composed of leaders of the nine member schools, proposes a new aid plan based on need with financial assistance through grants-in-aid during the seasons of competition.

In opening action of its two-day special meeting Thursday, the conference, by a single vote, maintained the round-robin schedule for football and unanimously acted to boost scholastic standards for athletes.

The round-robin, which went into effect this past season, requires all conference schools, except Idaho, to play each other annually. This means at least seven conference contests.

A plan, backed by UCLA and Southern California with support of Washington and California, would have reduced the requirement to five.

Attending this meeting are the school presidents, the faculty advisors for athletics who take official PCC action and the athletic directors.

The reiteration that penalties stand was setback for UCLA, USC, Washington and to a lesser extent, California. These penalties include loss of a year's eligibility for athletes, most of them football players, who received illegal aid in 1955.

UCLA, USC and Washington carry the brunt of the penalties. The Uclans were placed on probation until July 1, 1959, and the Trojans and Huskies until July 1, 1958.

During that time no athletic team can win a conference title or participate in a post-season contest, including the Rose Bowl.

California was put on probation until July 1 of this year, but without the championship bans. The probation against USC by the PCC involved football only, but was increased by the NCAA to include all sports.

Chestnut To Box Martinez Tonight

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON — Featherweight contender Ike Chestnut planned anything but a cordial welcome tonight for Isidro Martinez of Panama, who came north to seek fame and Yankee dollars.

The two meet in a 10-round nationally televised bout at Capitol Arena, where Chestnut won friends in two previous appearances.

The 25-year-old Ike, fighting out of Harlem, dropped a split decision to France's Cherif Hamia last spring. But Chestnut put up a whale of a battle. Later he stopped Carmelo Costa of Brooklyn, then fourth ranking challenger, on an eighth round TKO.

That is one of three knockout wins on Ike's record, which lists a total of 23 victories against 7 defeats and 3 draws. Martinez, 21, has knocked out 14 of his 24 victims and manager Manuel Alfaro says Isidro "never stops throwing punches." He's been licked three times, once by kayo.

The bout, which promoter Goldie Ahearn is staging for the benefit of Hungarian refugee relief, will be carried over the usual Friday fight network (NBC) at 10 p.m. (EST).

Judging will be conducted on the 10-point "must" system by which the winner of each round gets 10 points and the loser 9 or fewer.

Three Games Played In City League

Three games were played in City League last night at the Memorial Building. Youngstown Kitchens defeated Salem Tool 55-44, Carl Lumber rolled over Jerry's Recreation 80-42, and Suburban Market trounced Gordon Scott Leather Sports 66-30.

In the initial tilt Youngstown Kitchens led all the way as they outscored their opponent in every period but the last and then broke even in that one. The score by quarters was 13-6, 27-19, 41-30, and both squads scored 14 in the last stanza.

George Beck and Larry Stoffer led the winners with 13 and 11 points respectively, and Matt Klein scored 16 for the losers.

Carl Lumber rambled right out in front and remained there throughout the game. On the shooting of Bob Payer and Eddie Jordan, who scored 33 and 20 points respectively, Carl led at the end of the first period 12-9, and that was as close as Jerry's could get.

At half time Carl led 21-19, and in the third period they really pulled ahead as they dumped in 29 points to lead 60-27. Tony Knoti and Pat Mancuso led the losers with 11 and 10 points respectively.

In the final fray Suburban Market pulled out to a 20-6 quarter margin, and increased that to 32-8 at the intermission. At the end of three periods they had a commanding lead of 56-20. Williams was high point man for the winners with 16 points, and Larry Snyder led the losers with 8 points.

In volleyball, Electric Furnace took two of three games from Eagles 15-9, 15-9 and 4-15.

No Primary Election Seems Necessary In Columbiana

Lack of Contests Seen; Aspirants Begin to File

COLUMBIANA — No contests for party nominations for village of fices in recent years have usually mad unnecessary a primary election in Columbiana in odd-numbered years, which will probably be the case next May 7. From present appearances, there will be no contests this year.

Aspirants for places on the ballot must have their petitions in the office of county board of elections not later than Wednesday, Feb. 6, the deadline. Based on 7 per cent of the vote cast for governor last November in the various subdivisions, the number of petitioners required for independent candidates in the village of Columbiana is 135.

Party candidates in the major cities and villages in the count must have on their petitions name of five to 25 qualified voters of their own party, but non-partisan exceptions to the minimum of 25 include Columbiana school district, in which 38 are required, and in Fairfield township 32.

A filing fee of one-half of 1 per cent of the annual salary of the office sought is required, or a minimum of $1 and not more than $50. Candidates for unsalaried posts in school districts and townships pay the minimum of $1.

SECRETARY GAYL Gloss of the Columbiana fire department reports 30 fire alarms in 1956, including seven in Fairfield Township outside the village. The village reciprocal aid contracts with neighboring municipalities paid off well in the half-million-dollar fire last January 28, when nine departments helped control the blaze, including Salem and Boardman, with which the village has no contracts.

Salem Women's Bowling Association will have its annual city tournament meeting at the American Legion home in Lisbon at 2 p.m. Sunday, when plans will be completed for the event. The tournament this year has been set for Saturdays and Sundays, March 2 and 3 and 9 and 10, at the Hawkland bowling lanes in Lisbon. All bowlers will be welcome to attend the meeting.

Christ Mission trucks will conclude next Monday their present collection period in Columbiana.

Because of the holiday this week, the Kiwanis Club met Wednesday evening instead of Monday at Heck's Restaurant. Plans for the year were the subject of a round table discussion in charge of the new president, Willard Ferrall. The meeting next week will be at the 6:30 p.m. Monday at Heck's.

Lausche Names 3 To Agriculture Board

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Outgoing Gov. Frank J. Lausche Thursday appointed three men to membership on the state board of agriculture in his last official act before resigning to become the junior U. S. senator from Ohio. The appointments were sent to the Ohio Senate for confirmation.

The appointees are A. G. Madden of Madiera in Hamilton County, George C. Pidgeon of Wilmington and Emerson Hizer of Cadiz. Madden's term would end in 1959 and the terms of Pidgeon and Hizer in 1962.

Lausche also appointed Lawrence H. Kyte, a Cincinnati attorney, to the underground parking commission. He would serve on that group, which is planning to construct a parking garage under the State House grounds, until next October. He replaces Warren Grimes of Urbana.

Problems Seen For City-Owned Colleges

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The president of the University of Akron said Thursday night that the "flight to suburbia" will pose a tremendous financial problem for the city-owned school in the next five years.

Dr. Norman P. Auburn told the school's directors he expects an enrollment increase of 20 per cent in the next five years. But because most of the population growth is in the suburbs, the school's income from city taxes won't keep pace, he said.

He said Ohio's three municipal universities — Akron, Toledo and Cincinnati—all are faced with the same problem.

Kansas Governor Goes On State Supreme Court

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—Gov. Fred Hall resigned today and was appointed to the Kansas Supreme Court, the state's highest tribunal.

It was a rapid-fire maneuver by three Republicans just 11 days before Hall was scheduled to surrender the governorship to Democrat George Docking.

Chief Justice William A. Smith, who has been in ill health, resigned to Hall. Hall then announced his own resignation, automatically elevating Lt. Gov. John McCuish to chief executive. As soon as McCuish was sworn in, he announced appointment of Hall to succeed Smith.

McCuish will serve as governor only until Jan. 14. Hall will serve until the 1958 general election.

U. S. BASE AT BOTTOM OF WORLD — This air view from a U. S. Air Force supply plane shows the U. S. base at the South Pole, where a 26-man Seabee team is preparing quarters for South Polar scientific survey. Swirling marks on polar ice cap, which is twice the size of the United States, were made by weasels, tractor-like vehicles used at the base. When completed, the base will be inhabited by a nine-man Navy team who will spend the winter there. Picture was made by Douglas Aircraft photographer from one of the planes carrying supplies and personnel to the base.

Trumbull Democratic Chief Asked To Quit

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—A group of Trumbull County Democratic lawyers has asked Frank Cickelli, chairman of the party's county organization, to resign by Jan. 10.

The group said in a letter to Cickelli, made public Thursday, it would take further action if Cickelli does not step down.

The lawyers charged that Cickelli is not eligible to hold the chairmanship of the county executive committee because he no longer resides in the fifth ward, which he represents as a committeeman. State statute says a committeeman must live in the precinct he represents.

The report, published in Scripps-Howard newspapers, quoted Gen. Randolph Pate, Marine Corps commandant. Pate himself was among those who declined to comment.

At the White House, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said in response to questions that President Eisenhower "has given no authority for use of atomic or any other weapons in the Middle East." Hagerty declined to comment further.
